Cowboy Action Shooting

Cowboy action shooting is a growing sport with posses (teams) who shoot at the “bad guys” – metal or paper targets. The shooters adhere to strict regulations both at the shooting sites & anywhere on the grounds. Each posse includes a range official ensuring safety rules are followed. Enthusiasts see it as a family affair, with husband & wife teams, as well as children involved. Shooters often adopt “cowboy” names and wear western outfits. Ghost Riders Revenge, sponsored by the White Mountain Regulators, was recently held at Candia’s Kinnicum Fish and Game Club.

Evergreen

Evergreen is the one-acre woodland garden of landscape designer Robert Gillmore. It is located in Goffstown by taking Route 114 to Summer Street. June 1-3, 2001, Evergreen will be open to the public, with the exclusion of pets and children younger than 12. This is due to the fact that plants along the paths are easily damaged. The exhibition shows how "homeowners can create extensive, secluded gardens normally found only on much bigger properties."

Saint Andrew's Society of NH

The Saint Andrew's Society of NH was formed May 9, 1983 as an outgrowth of the then new Hampshire Highland Games. Gathering in Manchester, the founders established the Society as a nonprofit, charitable organization. The society has also established a "Charitable Assistance Fund" to help those who have suffered personal & financial losses, as well as the Bertha MacDonald Scholarship Fund that assists students in the study of Scottish Arts. The society seeks to preserve Scottish heritage and culture through its own events & activities while supporting other NE Scottish organizations, Highland Games & other Scottish events. It is not necessary to be a Scot or of Scottish descent to become a member. All people who share the goals of the society & wish to help perpetuate Scottish culture and traditions are welcome.

Women's Rural Entrepreneurial Network (WREN)

The Women's Rural Entrepreneurial Network began in 1993 as a course project of three women enrolled at Vermont's Springfield College. They wanted to create an organization that could make a difference in the lives of women living in a rural area. Their idea was to create an alternative job-training program that could assist low-income women in achieving business ownership. Today WREN includes over 610 members and 275 woman-led affiliated businesses.
